NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The "Marco Visconti" of Tommaso Grossi, a comance of the fourteenth century, founded upon contemporary chronicles, has so high a reputation among Italian works of fiction that it has been sev-eral times translated into English, and is now added to Bohn's Novelist's Library. The present edition is a reprint of a more expensive one originally published in 1879. (London: George Bell &

A "History of Spain," by Professor James A. Harrison, of Washington and Lee University, has been added to the Library of Entertaining History, edited by Arthur Gilman, and published by D. Lothrop & Co. Professor Harrison's impassioned and somewhat overwrought style adds rhetorical ornament to a subject quite picturesque enough without such decoration; sometimes, indeed, the style obscures the narrative. The volume is of handy size, printed in clear type on bad paper, and furnished with numerous illustrations of which there is little to be said in praise.

A volume of " Spanish Fairy Tales," translated by J. H. Ingram from Fernan Caballero (J. B. Lippincott & Co.), contains a great deal of entertainment for young people, but it is a curious specimen of bad book-making. The translator has emitted to tell us who "Fernan Cabaliero" is, although the identity of that fictitious personage, with Senora Bohl Faber de Arron long ago ceased to be a literary cret. We are informed by the preface that two of the stories here attributed to Fernan Caballero are not by her, but have been borrowed for the occasion from De Trueba, yet strange to say we are not told which two they are. It is mentioned, as one of the peculiar difficulties attending the translation, that the tales are so thoroughly Spanish as to be fairly soaked in Catholicism, which permeates the very fiesh and blood of the people, and leads them to talk too familiarly about sacred things. The translator seems to have been entirely successful in exoreising this inconvenient spirit, and altogether has treated the original author with rather scant cour-

An English book of a somewhat currons and indefinite character, "Words, Facts and Phrases," by Ellezer Edwards, has been republished in this country by J. B. Lippincott & Co. It is described as " a dictionary of curious, quaint, and out-of-theway matters," and although it contains a great deal of information which is accessible in ordinary etymotogical dictionaries, it embraces also a variety of other useful knowledge not so readily found, such as the origin of names, phrases, etc., scraps of antiquarian lore, fragments of history, etc., etc. It is well arranged and well printed, and will be of gen-

A fuller collection of the fairy tales of William Hauft than that recently published by G. P. Putnam's Sons has been issued in Chicago by Jansen, McClurg & Co. It is entitled "Tales of the Caravan, Inn and Palace," and is translated by Edward L. Stowell.

The first volume of a collection of " Leaves from the Annals of the Sisters of Mercy," by a member of the order, is devoted to the history of the sisterhood in Ireland. It embraces an account of the establishment of the various convents of Mercy in that country, anecdotes illustrating their charitable work, personal sketches, and a full biography of the foundress. Catherine McAuley. A second volume will be appropriated to England, Scotland and the Colonies, and a third to America. (Catholic Publication Society Co.)

Dr. Isaac I. Hayes has prepared a little book of Pictures of Arctic Travel," which will afford pleasant fentertamment for an idle hour. His purpose was, as he explains it, " to draw from personal experience some pen-pictures of life and nature," rather than to present a narrative of travel; and he has accordingly offered us here two lively sketches of character and a chapter on snow and ice. The scene is Greenland, and he promises two similar volumes devoted to Iceland and the Arctic Sea. (G.W. Carleton & Co.)

King's Mountain and its Heroes," by Lyman C. Draper, LL.D., is an elaborate history of the im-Draper, LL.D., is an elaborate history of the important military operations which culminated in the defeat of Ferguson's royalist forces, on the borders of North and South Carolina in 1780, by the patriot partisan bands and backwoodsmen, at a time when the fortunes of the revolution in that portant military operations which culminated in time when the fortunes of the revolution in that region seemed utterly desperate. The engagement at King's Mountain was not only remarkable in its immediate issue, but of great consequence in its immediate issue, but of great consequence in its immediate issue, but of great consequence in its insh, French and German Day School, Young Laties AMERICAN AND FOREIGN TEACHERS further results. Mr. Draper has spent many year in collecting materials for an exhaustive account of the battle, and biographical sketches of the patriot leaders who took part in it, and his work has a serious value which the careless observer who judges only by its gaudy appearance will be likely to underestimate. (Cincinnati: Peter G. Thomson.)

Mr. George W. Harris, reporter of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, has edited, under the title of "Sketches of Debate in the First Senate of the United States," a MS. journal left by William Maclay, Senator from Pennsylvania in that body. The first sessions of the Senate were held with closed doors, and there is no report of the debutes, except the notices found in various published writings of the members. The journal of Mr. Maclay is partly in the nature of a personal diary, partly an abstract of official proceedings. In this latter particular it is the fullest account we have of the debates of the two years covered by it. It is occasionally free in style, and once in a while there is a quaintness in its observations at which we cannot repress a smile. Mr. Maelay was afraid that the Constitution would turn out "the vilest of all traps that ever was set to ensuare the freedom of an nnsuspecting people"; and even Washington, whom he wrongly suspected of an ambition to wear high-sounding titles, did not escape his censure. The question of the official title for the President was one of the prominent topics considered during the first session of the Senate; and there were various other difficulties of etiquette connected with the inauguration of the Government of which the reader will find here a comical account. The editg of the journal is not very satisfactory. Some of Mr. Harris's own contributions to the volume are superfluous, and the lack of both index and table of contents is a serious defect. The book is printed in Harrisburg, and sold in this city by Brown & Derby.

In "Paul the Missionary," the Rev. William M. Taylor, D.D., minister of the Broadway Tabernacle, has made a notable attempt to combine with the historical narrative the practical lessons for modern life which are taught by the incidents in the apostle's career. The story of Paul's missionary labors is told with all the fulness of detail and amplitude of explanation which modern scholarship has placed within reach of the biographer, and the moral is drawn with the impressive fervor of the pulpiorator. The book is similar in plan to other popular works by the same author on Peter, Daniel, David, Moses and Elijah. (Harper & Brothers.)

CLOSING PRICES OF PHILADELPHIA STOCKS.

Reported by Int. It. Parts & Jr., No. 11 (Patt-r.,

THURSDAY, Dec. 1 .- P.M. Stock speculations for the "long" account today were checked; first by the Treasury programme, which, as explained to a TRIBUNE correspondent, by Secretary Folger, and printed this morning, seems to dispel all probabilities that the freasury reserves are to be used to foster speculations of any kind; and second, by the absence of any official confirmation of yesterday's rumors respecting the settlement of the railroad difficulties. While there is little doubt that too much importance is given to the railroad fight, in the present condition of the traffic, it is certain that speculators yesterday built largely upon results that have not been announced, and for which there is lacking any trustworthy evidence that there ever was a probabilits that they would be announced. The disappointment over the affirmation of the Treasury policy, and the lack of affirmation on the railway figures. The market, however, was well sustained during the first part of the day, and the prices fluctuated up and down 4@12 per cent, without any special significance. The assertion that railway matters were harmonious was repeated and reiterated with no less confident emphasis than it was yesterday; but the market refused to respond to the favorable assertion (if favorable it is), and operators generally seemed to care little whether the report was true or not. Those who wanted stocks for that supposed rea. son seemingly had secured all t hey wanted, and the purchasing power seemed to be exhausted. It was after midday when the market became active, and then it was because of a pressure to sell. After the first decline of 12@1 per cent had occurred, there was a small reaction on the report that the market was sold down on a rumor that Mr. Vanderbilt was seriously ill. But with the positive denial of the report, instead of a further recovery the decline was renewed, and before the close of business. became serious. To account for the second and important drop the story was started that there was a "hitch in the railway negotiations," and that the meeting (†) "had broken up in a row." A sensible conclusion regarding this whole matter is, that for two or three days past stocks have been purchased to resell on a "boom" of 2 or 3 per cent; and that to-day's early dealings demonstrated the fact that small as well as some large operators had made preparation for the same event. Hence there were no buyers and consequently one seller led many others to follow. The special stocks of the day were Louis-ville and Nashville, which rose to 102, but ended at 1001s, and Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, which was exceptionally strong up to 1284, but clo ed off to 1271s. The general market was weak at the opening, weak in the middle of the day and at the end was weak and demoralized.

the early prices were lower than yesterday's final

well

In Governments a large business was done in the continued 5s at 1025 2 10212, and a moderate amount was done in the 4s. For the purposes of bank circulation the continued 5s are preferred to the 412s or 4s, because of the general belief that before all the continued 6s are redeemed the reduction in the market price of the long date bonds will be greater than the present premium on the continued 5s. The only change in the biddings is an advance of 14 per cent for the 412s. Annexed are the closing quotations:

In the railroad bond market, Boston, Hartford and Erie firsts again were the special feature, and sold up to 80, but closed at 77 against 78% yesterday. There has been no reason to suppose that the recent advance in the price of these bonds was based upon any present or immediately prospective merit; on the contrary, it has been well understood that it was a "deal" in connection with the annual election of the New-York and New-England Company, and a talk about important Western connections (which will be made) which, it is expected, will make a good market for the sale of the bonds at a fair profit; the movement probably will be successful as a speculation. C., C. and I. C. incomes to-day were notably strong, and rose to 7478. Eric second consols sold ex-interest at 101% a 1014; Missouri, Kansas and Texas seconds declined to 77, and the general mortgages sold at 87% @87% ex-interest. Chesapeake and Ohio firsts, series B, declined to 8314, the currency debts being steady at 5514. Canada Southern firsts were steady at 9834@9878 St. Louis and Iron Mountain new 5s sold at 87, and first incomes at 99. East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia incomes sold up to 55@54. St. Paul and Omaha consols sold ex-interest at 1014@101. Denver and Rio Grande consols fell to 109, and Kansas Pacific firsts to 10334. Texas and Pacific incomes were 12 lower at 7534. but firsts, Rio Gio Grande division, were strong at 91. New-Orieans and Pacific firsts sold at 943s@94, and Denver, South Park and Pacific firsts at 103½@104. The closing quotations were as follows:
